In order to have the protocol on cooperation with XXXXX signed, it will be necessary to send the following documentation:

• Documentation demonstrating that the signatory has the authority to sign citizen participation protocols.

• Documentation certifying the position held in the entity.

This accreditation is done through the Hague Apostille Convention of 1961, for the countries that signed it. The following link shows the substantive and formal requirements necessary for the signature:

> The apostille must also follow formal requirements, with minimum dimensions and content, as indicated in the following link.
